Fifth Sunday in Ordinary Time

Light shines through the darkness for the upright.
—Psalm 112:4

GOD'S CALL

The person who has been "saved," who has "heard the good news of salvation," still lives in an unsaved world, a world sadly oblivious to the presence of God. Today's readings outline how the disciple is present in the world. The outline begins with Isaiah: "Share your bread . . . shelter the oppressed . . . clothe the naked" (Isaiah 58:7). Those who hear the word of salvation are not insensitive to the urgent needs of others. Then Paul reminds his flock that he brought Christ to them not in eloquence or wisdom, but by being with them in the "weakness and fear" of their daily lives (1 Corinthians 2:3). Finally, Jesus tells his disciples to go out into the gloom and darkness of the streets of the world and let God's light shine through their good deeds. We disciples don't save the world. To the extent, however, that we have heard the word of God and been awakened to God's presence, we may spread that word and bring that presence to others.

TODAY'S READINGS

First Reading — If you share your food with the hungry, provide housing for the homeless, then light shall break forth upon you (Isaiah 58:7-10).

Psalm — The just man is a light in the darkness to the upright (Psalm 112).

Second Reading — My message to you, says Paul, was not clever words of wisdom but the proclamation of Christ crucified (1 Corinthians 2:1-5).

Gospel — You are the salt of the earth, the light of the world. In your good deeds your light shines before others, leading them to glorify God (Matthew 5:13-16).

Introduction to the Liturgy of the Word

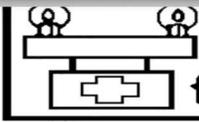

Today Jesus proclaims us the salt of the earth and the light of the world. How can we be all that? Our first reading points the way: feed the hungry, shelter the oppressed and the homeless, clothe the naked. No mention of whether they are "deserving." When we do these things, then our light will "break forth like the dawn." Our readings today call on us to do no less than light up the whole world!

Pastor's Column

Instruments of Peace - It's easy to view others with suspicion and even fear when they look different from us, dress differently and speak differently. But God speaking through Moses, told the Israelites "do not mistreat or oppress a foreigner, for you were foreigners in Egypt" (Exodus 22:21). Pope Francis last October said, "It is hypocritical to call oneself a Christian and send away a refugee, or one who needs my help. Jesus taught us who the good Christian is in the parable of the good Samaritan." And on Monday, the President of the US Bishop's Conference, Bishop Joe Vasquez of Austin, said "we believe in assisting all those who are vulnerable and fleeing persecution, regardless of their religion." Other Catholic leaders have reminded that Catholics from Ireland and Italy also were once victims of discrimination at the turn of the 20th century. When John F. Kennedy ran to be President in 1960, there was also great distrust because he was Catholic. So we should not be quick to reject the foreigner in our midst. And it's not "either, or" but "both, and". We don't have to be either for security or for refugees. But we can be both for security and for refugees. Cardinal Tagle, president of Caritas, asks people who express reservations about receiving refugees and migrants, "have you ever talked to a real refugee? Have you heard stories of real persons? Very often, the refugee issue is reduced to statistics and an abstraction," he said, and when people actually talk with refugees, "you realize that there is a human story, a global story (there) and if you just open your ears, your eyes, your heart then you could say, 'This could be my mother. This could be my father. This could be my brother, my child.' These are human lives," he said. "So, for people making decisions on the global level, please know that whatever you decide touches persons for better or for worse. And if our decisions are not based on the respect for human dignity and for what is good, then we will just be prolonging this problem -- creating conflicts that drive people away." Locally, the stories that have come from school children of immigrant families are ones of fear. Fear of whether their mothers or fathers will still be home when they return from school. Fear of being separated and not being heard from again. Because of this, Archbishop Cordileone has expressed that our local Church will extend a collective embrace to our immigrant families. That we will stand with them, support them and accompany them in their journey. He will be hosting a briefing and dialogue with the clergy next Thursday, Feb 9, 2017 to discuss how we can better support those who live with fear. If you're interested, please let me know. "Lord, let me be an instrument of your peace, where there is hatred, let me sow love; where there is injury, pardon; where there is doubt, faith."

Peace, Fr. Dan
