Imitating the Great Saints

While the souls of some of the saints of the Catholic Church have long ago gone to heaven, their bodies are still here. Their bodies have not decayed. They have not been embalmed. This is known as “an incorruptible” in the Catholic Church. The major difference between a mummy and an incorruptible is that an incorruptible has not been deliberately preserved. In the Middle Ages, when bodies were exhumed or otherwise come upon which were found to be remarkably intact, the phenomenon was attributed to heavenly intervention and the bodies would be put on display in churches. The word would get out and people would flock to see the incorruptible body.

Jean Baptiste Marie Vianney (8 May 1786 – 4 August 1859), more commonly known as Saint John Vianney, or the Curé d’Ars was a French Catholic priest who is venerated as a saint and as the patron saint of parish priests. His incorruptible body was placed in a glass case in the basilica at Ars-sur-Formans where it remains to this day. His heart was placed in a separate container and sent to Rome in 1925, the year he was canonized.

“Love is shown more in deeds than in words.”

St. Ignatius of Loyola

Saint Ignatius of Loyola (October 1491 - 31 July 1556) was a Spanish Basque Catholic priest and theologian, who founded the religious order called the Society of Jesus (Jesuits) and became its first Superior General at Paris in 1541. He is the patron saint of Basque provinces as well as the Society of Jesus, and was declared patron saint of all spiritual retreats. Ignatius is also a foremost patron saint of soldiers. He has had a global impact, having been the influence behind numerous Jesuit schools and educational institutions worldwide, to include St. Ignatius College Preparatory, University of San Francisco, Boston College, Marquette University, and Georgetown University.

Dear Bereavement Ministers and Coordinators,

On our website www.sfarchdiocese.org/grief we try to send people to different sites for opportunities that are available to help process grief. Since the need for grief assistance usually comes sometime after the loss event it is imperative for us to know what is available at the time we are asked to minister.

Besides the assistance you are able to render at this time be aware that all three counties can participate through virtual offerings:

www.misionhospice.org continues to offer a range of workshops that are free, virtual and provide quality assistance. See Death Café explanation and the wide range of conversation around loss that makes people feel welcome without having to speak unless they choose.

In this month's offerings there is one in Mandarin beginning August 8th, as well as virtual drop-in support groups that are on-going with the addition of specialized groups for partner loss, died by suicide and grief art.

These are difficult times for all of us and lack of touch, a funeral for closure and the presence of a sacramental church not always available because of COVID19 we value having good persons like yourselves with resource information that enables those most in need.

Blessings on your continued compassionate outreach to others.
